

Resource 1

Look at the resource below, which shares some examples of when we might copy. Can you sort them into when copying might be right and when it might be wrong?

When copying is right

Copying spellings from someone else in a test.

Copying your best friend's new pencil case and buying the same one.

When copying is wrong

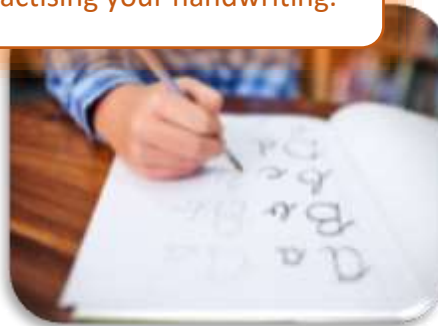

Copying dance moves when learning a new routine.

Copying everything your friend does and says.

Copying from a book when practising your handwriting.

Copying someone else's picture.

Can you think of any other examples of copying?
